Interlining

The range of Regency interlinings is designed to give a fuller and more substantial appearance to curtains while improving on interior insulation. Due to the loose construction of interlining it is generally good practice to cut oversize and allow to stand for some hours prior to stitching. This allows for any residual tension in the material to relax. The selection of sewing thread, stitch and tension should reflect any differential shrinkage between interlining and face fabric.

Tape Measures

Tape Measure
5mtr/16ft long	TAPEM

5mtr/16ft long with a sturdy 25mm blade.

The two prong end is ideal for hooking on curtain rings/hooks to get a drop measurement.

The tape is also double sided offering both an internal and external measurement. The top tape is a standard measure but the underside of the tape takes into account the tape measure housing and gives a true recess measurement without bending the tape.

Recess measurements on the underside of the tape. Simply butt the tape measure up to the wall or floor and the underside measurement is the recess size you need! No need to bend the tape.
